

Judging

You'll wash away in your tears,
Judging people and things,
Weaving colors so sad
And tangles so long
Into life's inscrutable tapestry.

Better not to have fears
By knowing people and things
Are not good or bad,
Or right or wrong,
But simply the way they are meant to be.